Student Emergency Support Program (SESP)

This program is intended to help students get back on their feet when an urgent or unexpected need arises that they cannot meet themselves.

In this work placement program, Columbia College will match students with projects alongside local community organizations for paid work experience. Students therefore gain valuable experience while building relationships with local organizations.

Student Teaching, Adaptation, Readiness Training (CC START)

CC START is CC's newest initiative to help new students get acclimated to the education system in Canada.
